

Stockport2020 – video transcript

Video transcript of Stockport Write out Loud poetry reading by Amanda Steel.

A Memory of the Time Before

I am the work, moulded together
From music, words and images
Inspiring art across genres
And blurring the lines

I am the time
You put yourself out there
Only to realise the room was empty
And you were left screaming into the void

I am the place you'll never see
At least not with the naked eye
Thoughts and feelings stripped bare
But we all carry them inside

I might never be seen
But you created me
I share the same fate as you
Locked down from the rest of the world

I am the unseen exhibition
A memory of the time before.
